Storyfit Summer 2022 Internship

- Application deadline: May 6th
- Perfect internship for TV & movie lovers!

To Apply:

Please send an email to careers@storyfit.com with the subject line: Summer Internship 2022 – [Your Name] by May 6th. Attached, please include:

- Resume (your name in the document title)
- 200-300 words answering the following question:
- Why do differences exist between people's entertainment preferences? That is, why can the same story be appealing to some people and unappealing to others (Make sure to provide reasons, evidence, and examples to support your response to that question)

Description:

Whether you are a future filmmaker, an observer of humanity, or just interested in how stories can be measured, we encourage you to apply to the summer internship. Non-technical backgrounds are equally welcome to apply!

The 2022 Summer Internship program will focus on understanding the basic elements of stories and how those elements relate to story form, audience response, and appropriate measurement techniques. StoryFit is upgrading its story-elements toolkit this summer, and this internship program will give future filmmakers, researchers, and others hands-on experience with understanding various components of scripts and how writers emphasize various concepts within scenes. StoryFit's analytics products automatically read scripts and use machine-learning to infer story features based on audience data, as well as theoretical frameworks from entertainment psychology. Our goal for the summer is to measurably enhance the reliability of our current story-elements-inference algorithm by iterating on our current approach and adding in new technologies.

The internship offers the following experiences for accepted applicants:

- Learn about the entertainment industry through readings and guided discussion with former entertainment executives
- Help conceptualize and evaluate web-based ratings tools StoryFit builds in house
- Option to help execute studies, optimize our efforts via project management

Required:

- Interest in media/entertainment industry
- Attention to detail
- Good communication & responsiveness to feedback
- Time management & adherence to project deadlines
